ENCAMPMENT OF THE G. A. R.

COMING MEETING AT DENVER PROMISES TO BREAK ALL RECORDS IN POINT OF ATTENDANCE.

Special to The Journal.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 12.—Late returns from the railroads throughout the country indicate that more than 125,000 persons are coming to Denver the first week in September, at the time of the National G. A. R. encampment. Every available passenger car on every transcontinental road has already been engaged for that week and some of the western roads are already planning to borrow from the eastern lines over which there will be less traffic.

The official program for the encampment, just issued, indicates that the formal opening of the encampment will take place on Thursday, September 7. The preceding day, however, will be taken up with a monster G. A. R. parade and an evening reception, while Tuesday will be given over to the Naval Veterans and other military organizations, including the Union Ex-Prisoners of war.

The line of march for the G. A. R. parade will, on account of the feebleness of most of the veterans, be under two miles in length and will be over level paved streets for the entire distance.

The official session of the encampment will be closed on Friday, September 9.

Reunions of the veterans from various states, as well as meetings of organizations allied to the G. A. R. will be continued throughout the entire week. Throughout the week, also, there will be given various entertainment features under the auspices of the local committee, most of them of a typically western nature.

NOTICE

On account of sickness, Mr. Woolen has decided to close up his carriage and repair shop, located on the corner of Intendencia and Baylen streets. These premises, and also the second story formerly occupied by Gonzalez's Cigar Factory will be for rent from the 15th of August. For further particulars apply to Thos. C. Watson & Co., agents.

TERSELY TOLD BUSINESS LOCALS.

Hendrix & Carpenter will furnish estimates on building and painting and give personal attention to work. 932 E. Strong, and 824 East LaRue streets.

McKinzie Oertling & Co., wholesale and retail ship chandlers and grocers, the only first-class house of the kind in Pensacola. Fair prices to all.

Why use inferior paper, when you can buy Kelso Bond, French Dimity, Kara Linen, or Crane's Bond at C. V. Thompson's, 20 S. Palafox.

WHAT FLAGLER'S UNDERTAKING MEANS

great change in the transportation of passengers and freight in the Caribbean and Gulf coasts trade. To Havana comes the passenger travel of Central America and Mexico by many lines of steamships, carrying also great cargoes of merchandise for the United States and Europe. To Havana from New York hundreds of passengers go weekly by steamer, many of them continuing from Havana to Vera Cruz, Tampico, Progreso, Coatzacoalcas, Greytown and Colon, as well as to cities on the Pacific coast of Central America and Mexico. Many Spanish-American business men located in South America's Pacific states make frequent visits to Havana, and still continue the trade with Cuba's chief city, which commerce was established centuries ago when Havana was the center of Spanish authority in the New World.

Between Key West and Havana through the straits lies the waterway connecting the gulf and the Atlantic and the flags of all nations are seen in this comparatively narrow channel as the vessels wait their peaceful way to and from "the lands of snow and lands of sun." It is now a four day's steamer voyage from Havana to New York, with the dreaded Cape Hatteras to pass.

Great Advantages.

When this proposed railway to Key West is completed, a traveler can leave Havana by steamer for Key West, reaching Key West in less than six hours, and taking a Pullman coach can be in New York within fifty hours thereafter. This saving of time will constitute a powerful appeal to the business men of the twentieth century, and I find that Spanish-American business men are not slow to drop "manana" methods, and are quick to appreciate the saving of days or hours in travel. Young America is as progressive and as restless in Spanish America as he is in the United States. With this route well established many are of the opinion that the importance of Havana will be largely reduced, and that Key West will attract direct to its harbor the many lines of steamers which now make Havana their terminal or port of calling en route to more distant ports.

These gentlemen believe that Havana will subside into an island capital dependent almost solely upon the commerce of Cuba, losing her trade with the other Spanish-American countries which Cuba herself produces.

At Havana can no longer continue to be the clearing house, as hitherto, for the imports and exports of the continent, and when the railway to Key West is completed, that city will be the port of call for the various steamship lines of the United States and Europe instead of Havana. There is abundant reason for believing that in the future Key West will be of greater commercial importance than Havana in case this railway is completed as proposed.

Havana has but Cuba with its millions of inhabitants, to sustain her trade; Key West will have the many millions of the Atlantic Coast, of the United States in close communication and can reach any port of the world East, West, North or South, as readily and as speedily as Havana. In all the ports of the Spanish main the commercial agents of the United States are to be found today and their numbers are increasing rapidly. The merchants and bankers of Mexico, Central and South America are doing more business with those of the United States than ever before. Loans are made to day in New York in all the Spanish-American centers of trade, and ten years ago those same loans would have been procured in Paris, London, Madrid or Hamburg. These financial and commercial ties being formed nothing can more surely than that travel and freight to and from the countries thus united will follow on the most speedy and direct route. Havana will be sidetracked ere many years go by as far as the commerce of the Gulf and the Caribbean is concerned and Key West bids fair to take her place in the supremacy of the trade of the Gulf.

Partly Correct.

Benjamin D. Robinson gets the first correct but says "river" for "bridge" in the second.

Florence Bobe's answers were probably correct but the coupon was stuck to the "flap" of her envelope and so torn in taking out could not be read. Do not turn the "flap" inside but seal it outside. Some trouble with "Earnest" somebody, whose house or box is "352," the balance of his address being torn off in trying the "unstick" it from the flap; also Erin, Meta—Sallie Wa— and William E. St—

Two sealed envelopes were received in the "Puzzle" box this week but, as one is addressed to "Robert Calvin, 330 W. Zarragossa, Pensacola, Fla." and the other to "Miss Beatrice Calvin, 328 W. Zarragossa St., Pensacola, Fla.," the Puzzle Editor does not feel at liberty to open them, though they may be puzzle answers, for answers come addressed in all sorts of ways but the right one. Mr. Robert and Miss Beatrice can get their letters by calling for them at The Journal office.

Received Too Late.

Elsie McConnell's correct answers to the Puzzle Pictures of July 30, dated July 31, postmarked "Defunk Springs, Aug. 2, 10 a. m." were "received" Pensacola, Aug. 2, 11 p. m. all right, but were addressed to "The Pensacola Journal, Pensacola, Fla." and went to the business department Thursday morning where they laid till too late for the Puzzles. So did the answers of Myrtle Harris of Defunk, Henry M. Neigel, of Mobile, and Roberta Cato, of Pensacola, while Gertrude Pfeiffer, city addressed hers to "Mr. F. Mayes, care Journal office, Pensacola, Fla." all of whom are invited to keep on trying, and in future address your answers to "Journal Puzzles, Pensacola, Fla." (or "city" if you live in Pensacola), for it grieves the Puzzle editor to have any of you miss a chance at that dollar.

Dessie Shackelford's, Virginia and Dan Walker's correct answers, which should have been at The Journal office by Thursday evening, Aug. 3, are postmarked "Pensacola, Aug. 4, 6 p. m., which was Friday.

Virgie Bowers of Milton, also sent correct answers with a cute little note to "Mr. Puzzle Editor," but did post them till "July 27" and they did not reach the Pensacola postoffice till 11:30 Thursday night, and it was 1 a. m. Friday when they reached the Journal office, long after the Puzzle Editor had emptied the Puzzle box and gone home.

Miss Lillian Adams also sent correct answers which are postmarked, "Baltimore, Aug. 3," the day they should have been in Pensacola. However, Miss Lillian gets her answers here on time this week, proving that she is not to be discouraged by such trifles as a few failures.

This week the answers of Arthur E. Crooke, city, addressed to "Journal office, city," Hattie Lu Trammell, Muscogee, Fla., addressed to "Daily Journal, Pensacola, Fla.," Harry Porter, 104 Houston St., Montgomery, Ala., addressed to "Editor Journal, Pensacola, Fla.," and of Aubrey Gainer, Milton, Fla., are rescued from the business and editorial departments barely in time.

Aubrey Gainer gets the first correct, but says "fence" for "bridge" in the second.

Aubrey addressed his "Pensacola Journal, Pensacola, Fla." and had written "Puzzle Editor" across the end where the "return request" is frequently written and it escaped attention at first.

Harry Porter had correctly addressed a paper folded round his answers, but somebody "big enough to know better" addressed the envelope.

Letters and Comment.

Puzzle Editor:—Here is my answer for last Sunday's puzzles, which I think is right. What do you think? Your New Puzzle Correspondent, J. C. McKinnon, Jr.

I am sure of it, "J. C." but please add your address on the "Answer Coupon."

Dear Sir:—You will find enclosed my answer for the puzzle of last Sunday. Very respectfully, Coyle McKinnon, Marianna, Fla.

All right, Sir. Glad to hear from you. Please write your address on your answers.

Dear Sir:—This is my first answer to puzzles in the paper. I hope it is correct and that I may get that dollar. If not this time I will try again and hope for success. Your little friend, Frances Livingston, River Junction, Fla.

Hurrah for you, Frances! Here's hoping you'll get it soon.
